DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 1-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Microsoft Corporation's MICROSOFT OUTLOOK 2000, hereinafter Outlook. See the newly cited copyright records for the software publishing date, given as 10 June 1999.

Regarding claims 1 and 9, at the "New Message" window shown in Fig. 2, Outlook teaches specifying addresses in a "To" field of an e-mail message. The large lower field is used to specify addresses to be removed from the "To" field. In Fig. 3, the addresses have been removed per the specification found in the large lower field. As is well known in the art, clicking the "Send" button in the upper-left corner of the New Message window sends the e-mail message to its desired recipients.

Regarding claims 2, 3, 10 and 11, it can be seen in Figs. 2 and 3 that addresses specified in the "Cc" and "Bcc" fields of the New Message window are subsequently removed per the specification found in the large lower field.

Regarding claims 4 and 5, Figs. 2 and 3 show the removal of a group list and an individually listed address.

Regarding claims 6, 7, 12 and 13, it can be seen in Figs. 2 and 3 that addresses have been removed from all address fields (the "To", "Cc", and "Bcc" fields), as per the specification found in the large lower field.

Regarding claims 8 and 14, at the New Message window shown in Fig. 2, Outlook teaches specifying addresses in the "To", "Cc" and "Bcc" fields of an e-mail message. The large lower field is used to specify addresses to be removed from the "To", "Cc" and "Bcc" fields. In Fig. 3, the addresses have been removed per the specification found in the large lower field. As is well known in the art, clicking the "Send" button in the upper-left corner of the New Message window sends the e-mail message to its desired recipients.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 15 March 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

The Examiner would like to note that the arguments refer to the filing date of the instant application as 26 July 2000, while the filing date of record is 26 July 2001.

In response to applicant's argument that the Outlook reference fails to qualify as prior art under 35 U.S.C. § 102(b), the Examiner respectfully disagrees. The publishing date of MICROSOFT OUTLOOK 2000, as demonstrated by the newly cited copyright registration record, is 10 June 1999. Therefore, any demonstrated usage of Outlook may rely upon the given publishing date. Thus, the Examiner contends that the cited Outlook reference is valid prior art under 35 U.S.C. § 102(b).

In response to applicant's argument that the examiner's conclusion of obviousness is based upon improper hindsight reasoning, it must be recognized that any judgment on obviousness is in a sense necessarily a reconstruction based upon hindsight reasoning. But so long as it takes into account only knowledge which was within the level of ordinary skill at the time the claimed invention was made, and does not include knowledge gleaned only from the applicant's disclosure, such a reconstruction is proper. See In re McLaughlin, 443 F.2d 1392, 170 USPQ 209 (CCPA 1971).

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
